Description for Product Discontinuation

As part of the ongoing improvement process, an upgraded COM housing series with optimized design was developed in 2019. This new housing series is also available in a metal variant, alongside the proven plastic version. Now that the new COM housing has established itself, the previous housing and its accessories will now be discontinued.

The new plastic housing is made of a black polyamide instead of a light-gray polycarbonate. The new black housing includes an integrated cable gland (for 10-16 mm cable OD's) instead for of the Pg16 thread. Otherwise, the technical data remains unchanged. The previous housings are plug compatible with the new housing.
