Description for Product Change Notification

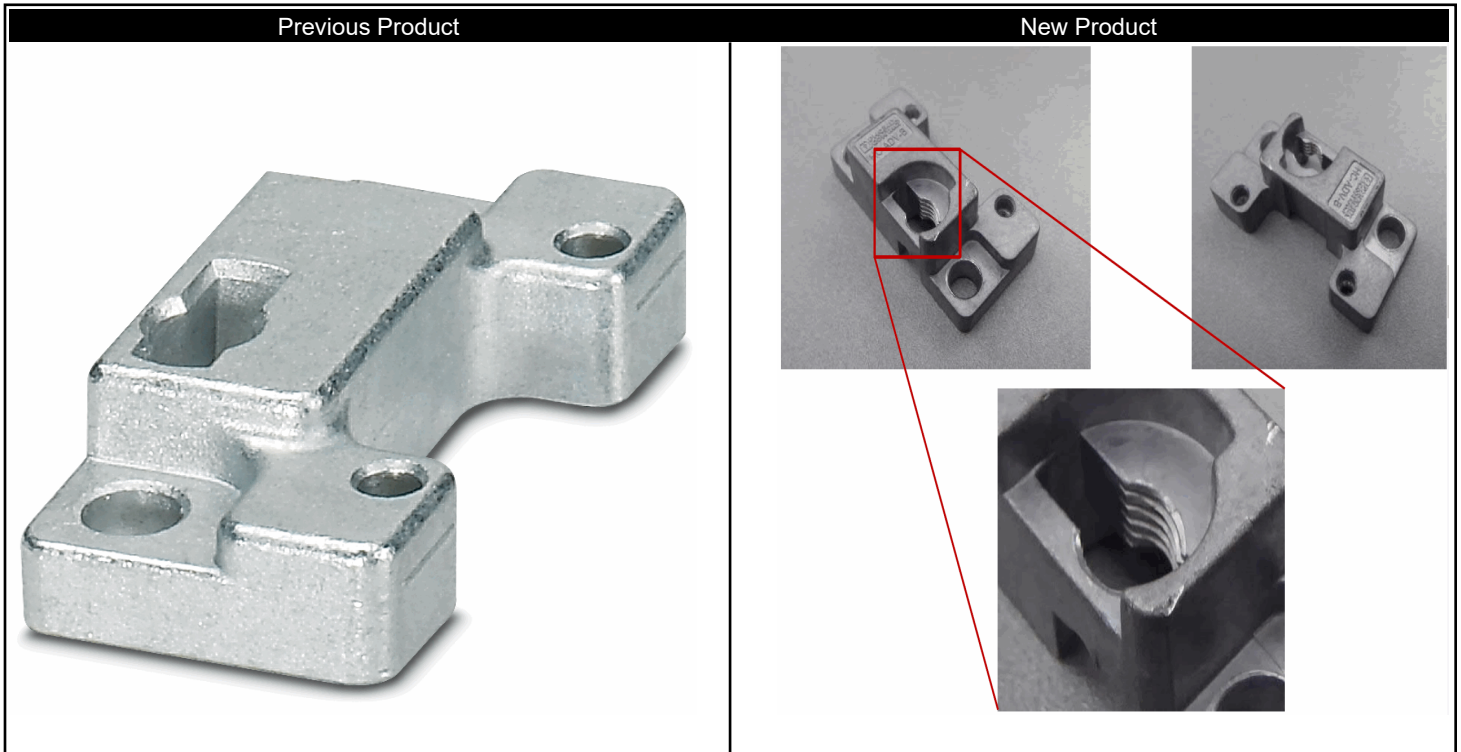

As part of the ongoing improvement process, the panel-mount flange developed for our HEAVYCON ADV bayonet housing has been upgraded. Now including an additional integrated thread, this new panel-mount flange allows for the option to use a protective cover with screw locking mechanism (among other covers), in addition to the version with bayonet interlock. The improved ADV bayonet panel-mount flange is made of die-cast aluminum instead of die-cast zinc, and is fully compatible with the previous version.
